BASKETBALL MEN COMMENCE SEASON WITH VICTORIES

Decisive Games Won From Both St. Stephen's and Upsala.

COACH PRODUCING PROMISING FIVE

St. John's and Brooklyn Law Outscore Blue by Few Points.

On the opening trip of the basketball season, the annual invasion of New York state, Middlebury's court five made its best showing in several seasons, defeating St. Stephen's at Annandale on Dec. 17 by a 25 to 18 score, trouncing Upsala College of East Orange, N. J., on Dec. 18 in a 29 to 16 contest, yielding to St. John's of Brooklyn the following Monday, 27 to 17, and barely losing to Brooklyn on Tuesday, Dec. 21, by a 22 to 21 score.

In all but the first game, the team each time seemed slow in finding the hoop, but as the final half drew on, opened up in its play to carry a series of baskets into the summaries. Not only did the Panther outscore its opponents 93 to 83 in these first four battles, but it also showed promise of future strength. Built from two letter-men and a number of former Middlebury players who have not as yet, received their sweaters, the five is a credit to the coaching of "Charley" Hargreaves.

Middlebury 25—St. Stephen's 18

When the varsity made its first appearance on the floor at Annandale, its potentialities were a matter of doubt to the coach as well as the players themselves. Only practice scrimmages had been attempted. But with the humbling of St. Stephen's, Middlebury's five "found itself" and began a valiant attack upon the York state basketeers.

St. Stephen's opened the scoring with a free throw, but in the next few minutes of play Middlebury ran up a five point lead. From then on the ball was in St. Stephen's territory for the most of the time. Middlebury held an eight point lead as the half ended. St. Stephen's opened with heavy artillery as the second half began. But though the lead was cut to two points, several long shots by Sorenson saved the margin for the Panther when points were most needed, and St. Stephen's could not overcome Middlebury's new lead.

Middlebury 29—Upsala 16

On Saturday evening Upsala College fell before the Blue and White's attack. For the entire first half Middlebury trailed the home team; but Capt. Hasseltine's guarding held the scoring down markedly, and with the close of the contest drawing on, the Panther started a rushing attack that swept Upsala before it. Within a very few minutes the score was first tied, then more than overbalanced. From the even break at 13 to 13, Middlebury scored 16 points more while Upsala could get but three.

During the last period the ball was almost entirely at Middlebury's hoop. Palmer led in the melee with five field goals, giving him a total of six for the game, while Hendrix' floorwork and the defensive game played by Hasseltine held Upsala.

WOMEN FINANCE TOBAGGAN SLIDE

The Women's Athletic Association has successfully completed financial negotiations, culminating in the creation of a toboggan slide, the first of its kind to be found in Middlebury College. The new slide has been built in the field north of Pearsons Hall. Its popularity on both sides of the hill is already assured, although it has been in use only a few days. At present the slide is condemned until the next good snow storm arrives. For all time, skiis, sleds, snow shoes and skates are taboo; only toboggans may be used. The Association has already invested in four which together with those owned by individual students, give promise of a steadily increasing traffic. The original plan of a skating rink for the exclusive use of the women could not be fulfilled.

TO HOLD DEBATING TRIALS ON FRIDAY

Schedule For Season is Announced by Head Coach Morse.

"Resolved that the Volstead act should be amended to permit the sale and manufacture in the United States of light wines and beers," is to be the subject for trial debates open to the entire Men's College Friday afternoon between 3:30 and 5:30 o'clock.

To encourage the participation of a large number of men the rules are comparatively lenient. Each contestant will be allowed five miutes in which to present his case. The side for which he argues must be pre-determined and the choice given to Professor W. N. Morse. Refutation may be used. The Judges will be Dr. V. C. Harrington, Dr. A. M. Kline, and Professor W. N. Morse.

From the try-outs two teams will be chosen consisting of three men and an alternate. These teams will be given equal opportunities in the home debates, and the better team will be chosen for outside trips, probably to Boston, R. I., and Worcester.

The team that was picked from previous trials is to debate only with Marquette, and the speakers and alternate are not yet definitely decided upon. It is pointed out that these men will have no more chance of making future teams than those trying out on Friday; also that participation in an intercollegiate debate is an absolute prerequisite for making Tau Kappa Alpha.

The schedule to date follows: Feb. 15, Marquette at Middlebury, the home team debating on the negative side of the Volstead question; February 23, Tufts at Middlebury, arfihmative of the Cancellation of War Debts; March 4, M. A. C. at Middlebury, affirmative of Cancellation of War Debts; March 12, U. V. M. at Middlebury, negative of the same question. There are also dates still pending with R. I. State, Boston College, Clark, M. I. T., and Maine.

To encourage debating at Middlebury a Council on Debating has been formed, composed of faculty advisors, President Paul D. Moody, Professors J .S. Kingsley and H. M. Fife, and Drs. V. C. Harrington and A. M. Kline..

Miss Flansburgh Speaks at Y.W.C.A.

At the weekly meeting of the Y. W. C. A., Miss Claire Flansburgh, a postgraduate student, delivered a very stimulating lecture on Porto Rico, the people and customs there. Miss Flansburgh was a teacher in the University of Porto Rico for four years and consequently had some intensely interesting experience as a background for her lecture. She portrayed very graphically her impressions of the scholastic life there.

MIDDLEBURY WINS IN FAST TUSSEL WITH HAMILTON

First Game Taken From Clinton Team in Four Years.

UNUSUAL HOCKEY FOR PREMIER DUEL

Whittemore and Kelley Are High Scorers for Middlebury.

Opening the season with a Christmas trip December 18th, Middlebury defeated Hamilton at Clinton 6-3. It was the first time in four years that the Blue skaters have been victorious over the New York Staters and it was a decisive win.

Minus the services of Captain Simmons at wing Middlebury entered the game handicapped but despite this, the Black Panther outskated and outshot the home team. Whittemore was the outstanding star of the game netting three goals and towering on the defense. Kelly made Middlebury's remaining points.

After two minutes of play Whittemore lifted a beautiful shot through the defense scoring Middlebury's first point. Hardly had the puck been taken out of the net when Brown of Hamilton took a rebound off Finnegan and put it cleanly in the net to tie the score. After several dashes the entire length of the ice, Whittemore out manoeuvered the defense and again gave the lead to the Blue. Play was fast and about midway in the period Brown took an easy shot from in front of the Middlebury goal and caged it again tying the score. Both teams tried desperately to break the tie throughout the remainder of the period. Ingalls in a mixup with Finnegan netted the puck sending Hamilton off the ice in the lead.

It was the last time that Hamilton was to score, for Middlebury's defense stiffened and kept the home team scoreless. Kelley started a determined rally early in the period by taking a pass from Whittemore and caging the rubber. Whittemore soon after put Middlebury in the lead with a beautiful lift shot from a quarter way down the ice. Middlebury's shots continued to bounce off the Hamilton goal and late in the period Kelley

SPAETH LECTURES TOMORROW NIGHT

Brilliant Musician Speaks on The Common Sense of Music.

Dr. Sigmund Spaeth, America's most popular speaker and writer on music, presents to-morrow evening in the Congregational Church his musical-illustrated lecture, "The Common Sense of Music."

Dr. Spaeth holds a high rank in the musical field of to-day. As song leader, lecturer and author his remarkable personality and excellent musical insight have made his name renowned throughout the country.

Dr. Spaeth's lecture is otherwise known as "Painlessly Removing the Inferiority Complex of the Average Listener," a title characteristic of the man and his work. A lover of music for pure enjoyments sake, he brings to his audience that sense of musical appreciation of which he is an ardent exponent.

The reasons for the outstanding success of the man are many. Perhaps his human appeal leads all. As a Doctor of Philosophy, he has developed a deep and thorough understanding of human nature. He knows what to say and how to say it, illustrating his points at the piano as he proceeds. Blending wit with the conversation and intimacy with his musical authority, he gives his audience an evening of sparkling entertainment and instruction alike. Among Dr. Spaeth's recent engagements have been such institutions as the New England Conservatory of Music, Eastman School of Music, Columbia University, Kiwanis Club of New York and Rotary Club of Chicago. His lecture will be unique in the college series.

Faculty Stage Minstrel Show

At the monthly meeting of the Cosmos Club Saturday evening the faculty members and their wives, gave an unusual frolic in the form of an old time Minstrel Show. With Dr. S. S. Freeman as Interlocutor, and Dean E. J. Wiley and Mr. C. H. Griffin as Endmen a lively performance was presented. The other participants were Professors H. M. Fife, L. R. Perkins, Dr. R. L. Barney and Mr. J. F. Haller.

During the show a "Mammy" Quartet, comprising Mrs. P. C. Voter, Mrs. Everett Skillings and the Misses E. E. Wiley and Prudence Fish presented appropriate numbers. Mrs. P. N. Swett accompanied at the piano.

A pantomime, "Heart of Apache," written by Professor E. L. Huet and Mr. Albert Ranty was also enjoyed.

Contrary to the announcement of the Men's College catalogue for 1926-1927, English 26, a course in the Poetry of Robert Browning, will be offered during the coming second semester. Through some oversight, it was announced to be given the first semester; but English 25, a course in the Poetry of Tennyson was substituted. English 26 is a C course open to all Juniors and Seniors with proper prerequisites.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

The annual dinner for the Associated Alumni of Middlebury College will be held on Friday evening January 28, 1927, at the Hotel Commodore, New York City. Reservations should be made through E. B. Ross, Secretary, 140 West street, New York City.

THIRD VICTORY ADDED TO BLACK PANTHER ACCOUNT

St. Michael's Succumbs to Home Quintet By 32-21 Score.

INITIAL LAP WON FOR CHAMPIONSHIP

Collins and Sorenson Are High Scorers For Blue.

Middlebury has won her first lap toward the state basketball championship and the third of her five games thus far by her defeat of St. Michael's College 32 to 21 here Saturday evening. After a delayed start, chiefly because of lack of teamwork, the Panther five opened a barrage of baskets in the second half that smothered the visitors and threw the balance easily over to Middlebury.

Fully three-quarters of the time the ball was bouncing around the St. Michael's basket; but for some reason or other, very few of Middlebury's shots were through the meshes. Roberts in particular, who substituted for Palmer in the first half, though failing to score any points, again and again rolled the sphere around the hoop and pounded the rim.

The game got away to a slow start. Hendrix opened with a free toss, Conally tied when Hendrix fouled him. Spooner was called for holding; Klein shot the point and Perotta made another when Hasseltine was penalized. "Hazzy" set the count at 3 to 2 immediately afterward, however. Connor of the visitors was the first to score a field goal, after nearly five minutes of play.

Klein threw another free toss. Middlebury was throwing wildly from beneath the hoop, but no points accrued. St. Michael's could use nothing but long range attempts during this time. Then Hendrix took a pass from Palmer and brought the score to 6 and 4. Spooner was disqualified with four personal fouls; Collins replaced him. Roberts was sent into take Palmer's forward position. Then the fun began.

Within half a minute Collins had slipped beneath the hoop and scored on a pass from Sorenson. Sorenson followed directly with another and Middlebury took the lead to hold it for the remainder of the contest. A second basket by Sorenson on a recovery from the backboard, a side-shot by Collins, and a toss by Dionne of St. Michael's, who had just substituted for O'Brien, set the score at 12 to 8 when the first half ended.

A flash of passing, Sorenson to Collins to Hendrix, began the half for Middlebury with points. O'Brien checked with a basket, and immediately threw another to bring the score to 14 to 12. Henderson to Collins to Henderson sent the Panther into a safer lead, and when Perotta took a free throw, Collins countered it with a heave from the side: 18 to 13.

O'Brien dribbled in to the foul line, and dodging Hasseltine, shot his basket. But Hendrix immediately put one in for Middlebury. And when Connor threw one a half minute later. Sorenson on the next play from center dribbled the length of the hall and shot his points. Substitution after substitution on the part of the St. Michael's coach could not overcome Middlebury's whirlwind rush. Once the inside of the hoop had been found, nothing could prevent the score's mounting.

Hendrix threw a short, took another with a free throw when he was fouled beneath the basket. A pass, Hasseltine to Collins, was recorded as a basket; Perotta took a free throw proffered him. Connor went in for O'Brien, Ferry for Roberts, and when Hendrix was disqualified for fouls, Sorenson took the pivot position and Palmer went into his forward berth.

Connor slipped through Middlebury's defense to score from beneath the hoop; Dionne heaved St. Michael's last points an instant later. Then the Panther broke loose with a last flurry of shots, and Collins and Sorenson dropped in one apiece to bring the score to 32 to 21 as the game ended.

HOW WE DO IT.

There are always some typographical errors and occasionally a misstatement in the Campus. These faults give rise to considerable comment off and on which while justifiable would be better directed if the students and faculty knew more of how the paper is put together.

First, we are primarily news gatherers and not a literary publication. Our job is to gather the events of the week together with forecasts as to the next weeks act vities and to present the same in the latest form possible. Consequently we set no type until Monday of the week of issuance. This means sacrificing perfection to speed.

The reporters assignment sheet is made up Thursday and added to constantly until Wednesday morning. The majority of the articles are handed in on Monday and Tuesday. All have to be corrected. On Saturday the editorial column is prepared.

On Sunday night the editor in charge goes over what copy is then in, corrects it, guards as much as possible against errors and writes headlines. When one thinks of the variety of news in an issue it can be seen that no one or two editors can know the absolute truth of every thing the reporters hand in.

An idea of what headline work means can be gained from the following: At least five sizes of type are used in headlines in every Campus. For a one column lead article we use three top lines of not over 16 nor less than 13 units of one size type, (all the lines being of equal length,) next a three line "inverted pyramid" of another size of which the top line is about 25 units the second of about 18 and the third of about 9. Then comes two lines of another size of 15 to 17 units each, and finally another pyramid. This is only one kind of a head, there are five or six others in regular use. These headlines must make sense. The same word cannot appear twice in the head of the same article. A thought cannot be repeated and the size type should go with the importance of the idea. The verb "to be" must be avoided when possible. The whole must give a good idea of the article and be written in relation to every other important head in the paper so that in the end the pages will balance.

Tuesday at 10:30 a. m. proof reading begins at the print shop. Most of the readers are necessarily tryouts, and it is done at top speed in the same room where the print shop is carrying on a considerable part of its own business. It is no wonder that all mistakes are not caught. Sometimes too, a small error is allowed to slip by to save time, since for every error, no matter how small, at least one line and sometimes a whole paragraph must be reset, reread and recorrected.

Late Tuesday the editor in charge makes up the dummy so that that night he has before him a practically complete layout of the next days paper. In dummying up the effort is to put the most important news to the fore and to balance equality against equality so that the result will be a uniform page to the eye. This means that the weeks paper was roughly sketched in the mind before any type was set and every story gauged thereon in length and every headline written with that in view.

On Wednesday morning copy concerning the night before is set and corrected. The man in charge of the composing tables begins putting the type from the galleys into the forms as shown in the dummy. The Campus is only a small part of the print shops business and many outside interruptions occur every week to delay the work.

Wednesday proof is necessarily read hurridly and the corrected slugs quickly inserted in the galleys. There is rarely time for final proof sheets. One can understand how slips occur when one realizes that all type reads backend foremost in galley and form; that each line is a moveable unit; that several irrelevant articles are on the same galley; and that type may be easily jumbled by a hurried last minute insertion or deletion. When a six page paper is issued pages number 3 and 4 go to press before number one is put in the forms so that a last minute change can be made in the first and last part of the paper but not in the center.

The above is an issue under ordinary circumstances. A "break" may come at any itme. Last November the paper had unexpectedly to change from four to six pages at 8:00 o'clock Wednesday morning because of last minute advertisements. That necessitated the gathering, writing, setting and correcting of two more pages of news in time enough to allow page number 4 to go to press at 10:00 o'clock and the rest at noon. The paper came out as usual before dinner that night.

This is only a brief outline of the work involved in putting out a Campus. The wonder is, not that mistakes occur, but that there are not more of them.

WINTER CARNIVAL.

The new hockey rink opened to the college for general use last week, and the new tobaggan slide on the girl's campus erected by the W. A. A. promise to be two of the most popular spots about the college during the next few months. Besides furnishing healthful amusement in their own right they ought also by example to arouse keen interest in all winter sports in general; not only in hockey and tobogganing but also in snow shoeing, skiing, general skating and the like.

Middlebury in many ways is handicapped in several fields of athletic activity, but in the line of winter sports there is no reason why anything but the limits of her own desires should curb her advancement. Nature has provided the great necessities; hills, cold weather,, ice and snow. The college has only to utilize them.

Best of all, winter sports in general meet the greatest objection of critics of modern collegiate games. They are not played by the few for the many but instead any number may, and do enter in, the degree of skill possessed in no check on the amount of joy derived. In winter sports there are organized teams it is true, but there are many times the number who go out for their own amusement and physical profit—each in the line that appeals most to himself.

Psychologically winter sports head the list of athletic activities which are played not primarily for the sake of winning over someone else but for the love of the sport or game itself—an attitude all too lacking in most athletic events.

The college administration and the W. A. A. are to be congratulated on the new facilities that they have provided in this line of sports. If the present interest keeps up something should immediately be done looking to a real winter carnival later in the season supported whole heartedly by students and authorities alike.

added two scores to the Black Panther's lead, the first on an unassisted dash down the ice and the second on a pass from Hill.

TRIO GIVES SIXTH CONCERT PROGRAM

Violinist, Pianist and Contralto Furnish Enterment.

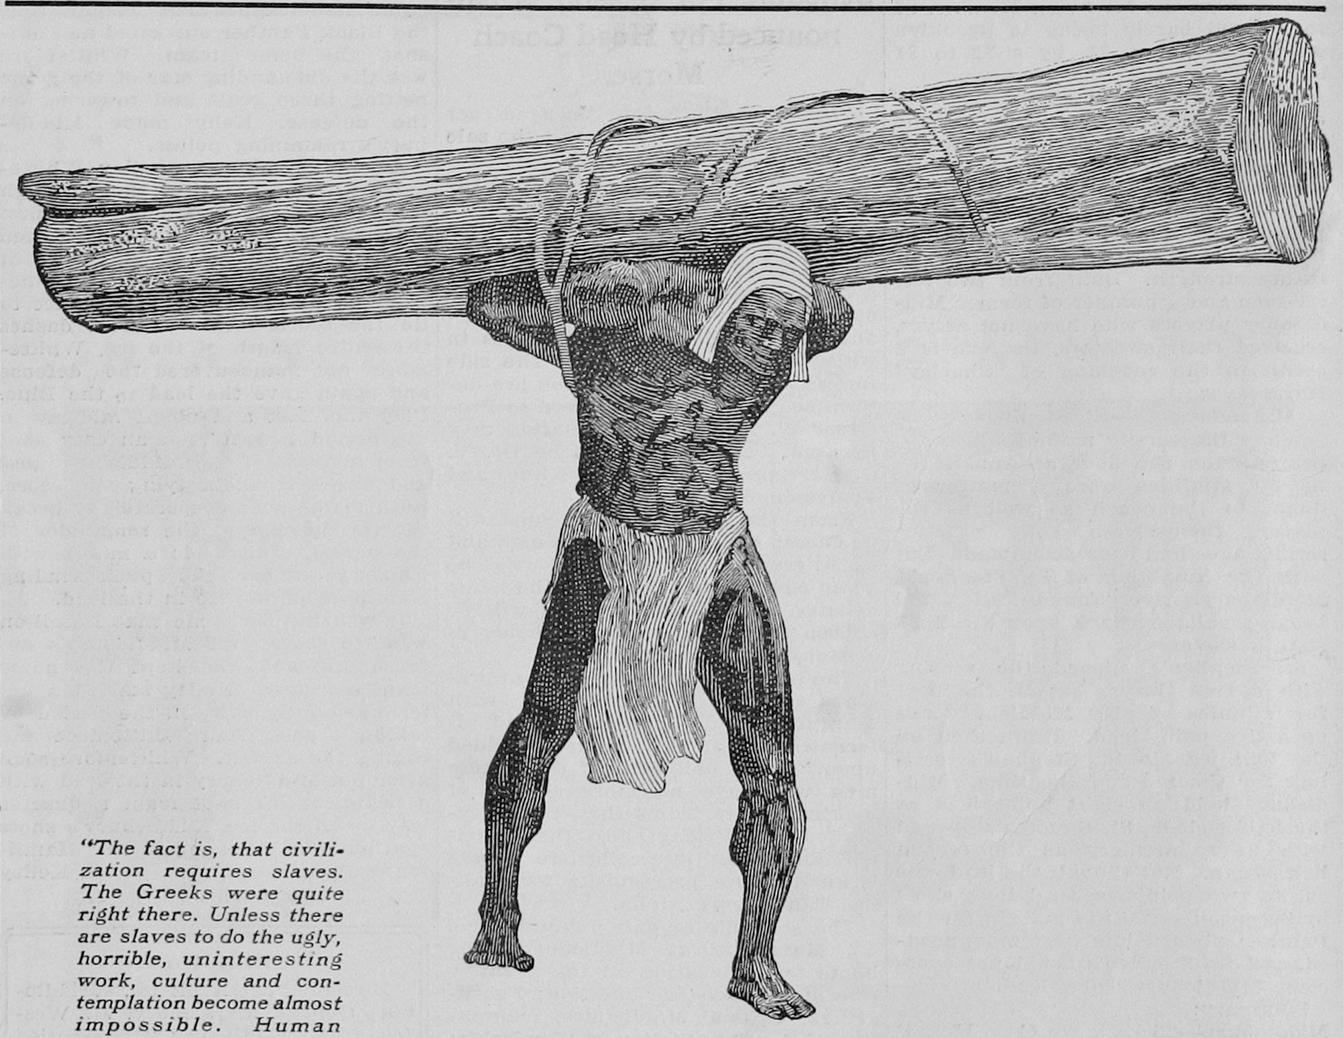
The sixth concert of the College Entertainment Series was presented last Thursday evening when a trio consisting of Messrs. Ary Dulfer, violinist, Raymond Putman, pianist, and Mrs. Louisa Burt Wood, Contralto, all of Boston, gave a program of instrumental and vocal numbers.

Mr. Dulfer proved his reputation as a violinist of keen feeling and understanding. Of his two groups perhaps the second, which included "Sarerade" by Randegger and "Spanish Dance" by Sarasate, was the better interpreted.

Miss Wood, the possessor of a beautiful contralto voice, sang two attractive song groups. Her "Ave Maria," Kahn, and "Floods of Spring," Rachmaninoff, were especially delightful.

The piano work of Mr. Putnam was undoubtedly the most masterly performance of the evening. Such numbers as "Sarabande," Rameau-Godowsky, "Reflets dans l'Eau," Debussy, and "Prelude, A minor," Chopin, were sufficient to display the skill, mood feeling, and interpretation of this young artist.

"Agnus Dei," by Bizet, for piano, piano, violin and voice concluded the program.



"The fact is, that civilization requires slaves. The Greeks were quite right there. Unless there are slaves to do the ugly, horrible, uninteresting work, culture and contemplation become almost impossible. Human slavery is wrong, insecure, and demoralizing. On mechanical slavery, on the slavery of the machine, the future of the world depends."
—Oscar Wilde

SLAVES

In a quarter-century the General Electric Company has produced electric motors having a total of more than 350,000,000 man-power. Electric light, heat, and transportation have also contributed their part to the freeing of men. These are America's slaves. Through their service American workers do more, earn more, and produce quality goods at lower cost than anywhere else in the world.

The college-trained man is the first to grasp these facts which raise man from a mere source of physical power to be a director of power, thus realizing the true economic value of the human mind.

You will find this monogram on all kinds of electrical machinery. To insure quality, ask for it on equipment when you buy for factory, office, or home.

A series of G-E advertisements showing what electricity is doing in many fields will be sent on request. Ask for booklet GEK-18.

REV. L. R. HARTLEY SPEAKS AT VESPERS

"The Evidence of Things Not Seen." Taken as His Text.

Rev. Lyman R. Hartley, chaplain of New York University, addressed the student body at Vespers Sunday. He spoke on the thought contained in a phrase found in the eleventh chapter of Hebrews, "The evidence of things not seen."

"We are living on the edge of a universe of reality which we cannot touch nor see," Mr. Hartley said in part. "There is an invisible universe running thru and interspersing this universe of ours. It is remarkable to realizez that in this very room to-day there are spirit-like out-pourings of divine words unperceived by us. By these words, if we wanted to catch and translate them, we should be lifted up as if by a passion. But we are not proving the reality of this spiritual universe; it cannot be proved. Yet its shadows fall across our path daily, and we are all driven on by the invisible. We cannot demonstrate but we can perceive. Messages can be reduced to a single voice, and we can hear God say, 'Whither thou goest, I will be with thee.' Yet our spiritual father is so often unperceived, so often unrecognized.

"Ask concerning a man 'What music moves him? What friends does he choose? What books is he selecting to read when he is alone? 'Answer these questions and I will tell you his soul. Responsiveness tells a man's character. The highest response is to things unseen. The great danger of our own day and age lies in the fact that, with wealth, we would gain the whole world, and lose our souls.

"When the question was submitted to the young people of thirty nations 'Who were the world's greatest heroes? It was not the great military leaders, not the financial geniuses who were selected, but an emancipator, a great discoverer, and other men and women who had seen the invisible. On the list was the name of Joan of Arc, an uneducated little peasant girl who had beheld the invisible and inspired a nation.

"We must see the invisible not only to be great, but merely to endure, to work properly, to get detailed drudgery over, to mount and not faint, to be helped and not hardened. We must see it in humanity; we must see it in death, if death is not to baffle us and beat us down.

"We can see the invisible if we will extend our angles of opportunity. We limit God by the extent to which we open up our hearts to His will. BBlessed are the pure in heart for they shall see God.' To the just, God will show Himself just, to the pure He will show Himself pure. We must have faith—faith to "believe in another's goodness through the inspiration of our own.'

"'To see the invisible is the greatest appeal I can make to you for your service to mankind. If you can reach the mountain peak of vision, if you can bring back assurance of things invisible, then you will have served your day and generation, and enriched your own life and the lives of your fellow-men."

Middlebury 17—St. John's 27

St. John's College of Brooklyn was another sort of opponent, however. A flashing floor attack and clever passing by the Yorkers made all of the Panther's attempts at victory futile. At the end of the first half St. John's led 18 to 6. The second half was undoubtedly Middlebury's, but the home team's greatest lead made a balancing of the books impossible.

Palmer tossed two baskets, Hendrix and Sorenson followed with one each. Three free throws were also tallied. But St. John's held the decision at the final whistle. Capt. Gallagher was a hard man for Middlebury's forwards to get by, despite all the encouragement of the large Middlebury crowd present to root for the Blue and White.

Middlebury 21—Brooklyn Law 22

There was plenty of room for passing on the 27th Signal Corps Armory floor, where Middlebury barely lost to Brooklyn Law on Dec. 21, by a one point margin. Middlebury had the advantage in point of passing; her fast floorwork puzzled the home team. But as in the previous two games, Middlebury trailed the score at the end of the first half and was unable to overcome the lead set up by B. L.

The crowd of over 1000 spectators were thrilled more than once, however, before the final whistle sounded. Sorenson with a spectacular one-hand shot brought Middlebury up to a 17 to 18 position and Hendrix set the score 19-18. Capt. Chipurnoi regained the lead for Brooklyn. Spooner, who had started Middlebury's rally earlier, shifted the lead once again. With one minute to play, the Panther took possession of the ball and planned to keep it. Referee Panem called many personal fouls; Salz tossed one of them and Jacobs, substituting at guard, threw the winning point thru the meshes.

LEE, '28, ELECTED MANAGING EDITOR

Campus Board also Choses Newcomb, '29, as Assistant Editor.

W. Storrs Lee, '28 was elected managing editor of the CAMPUS at a meeting of the board held Monday morning after Chapel. At the same meeting Arthur Newcomb, '29, was elected an assistant editor.

Because of the non-return in Sept. of L. C. Harris, '27, and C. H. Abbott '28, the new plan has not been followed out in detail as was planned, the assistant editors having alternated in taking charge of the issues. Several of the issues before vacation were in publication by his work on the other college papers as well as on the CAMPUS. Mr. Lee was editor of the 1926 Handbook and is business manager of the 1928 Kaleidoscope, assistant literary editor of the Blue Baboon, and contributing editor on the Saxonian board.

He is a member of the Delta Upsilon fraternity.

Mr. Newcomb was made assistant editor to fill the vacancy created by the election of the managing editor. Mr. Newcomb has done the most finished work of any of the Sophomore editorial tryouts.

He is a member of the Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity.

'90—Dr. Edwin Buxton Clift, died January 8, in Fair Haven. He had been in failing health for nearly a year, and had retired from active practice.

Dr. Clift was born in Middletown Springs, May 25, 1868; attended Troy Conference Academy and Middlebury College. He completed his course at Hahnamann Medical College, Philadelphia in 1900. He was a member of Delta Upsilon, Phi Beta Kappa and Phi Alpha Gamma fraternities.

At the time of his death he was a member of the staff at Moses-Luddington Hospital at Ticonderoga, New York. He is survived by his wife, Louise (Edgerton) Clift, and a daughter, Mrs. A. P. Benedict of Fair Haven.

this tradition would be to destroy the very foundations of the college.

The religious tradition finds its expression in the chapel exercises. In the face of the fact that Middlebury's tradition is fundamentally religious, do you think it just to complain that chapel attendance is required? And yet some of us are complaining. We attempt to justify our complaints by saying that the tendency of the age is toward freedom from formalism and set ways of doing things; that we don't want to go to chapel because our ancestors did, or because we are required to go; that we want personal freedom in religion. These arguments may sound plausible at first but the idea of personal freedom is carried too far. Authority should have its place and in this case tradition justifies the use of authority. Because Middlebury is traditionally a religious college, its executives are justified in requiring attendance at chapel services."

Mr. Gazdagh, winner of the second prize spoke on Napoleon. In part he said: "'A little while ago I stood by the grave of the old Napoleon. I gazed upon the sarcophagus where rest at last the ashes of that restless man, and I thought of all the widows and orphans he had made; of all the tears that had been shed for his glory; of the only woman who had ever loved him, torn from his heart by the ruthless hand of ambition. And I said, I would rather have been a poor French peasant and gone down to the tongueless silence of the dreamless dust than to have been that imperial impersonation of force and murder known as Napoleon the Great. He was condemned and committed for the crimes of the inhuman Pitt, the bigoted Wellington, the wily Metternick, the treacherous Talleyrand, and the wretched Fouche,' Ingersoll's Peroration.

"While we may not say, with Lamartine, his most bitter enemy, that he was the greatest of the creations of God we can say that he was the grandest Patriot ever sacrificed on the altar of Liberty."

The winner of the third prize, Edward Landon argued as follows: "The crisis in our relations with the Philippines is fast approaching, with every indication that their political standing will be definitely fixed in the early future. This should be no hit or miss affair. Upon a right decision hinge not only the progress and well-being of eleven millions of Filipinos and their descendants, but also the prestige of the United States and the part it is destined to play in the struggle now shaping for trade supremacy in the awakening Orient. The United States has many big problems engaging its attention, and this matter of the Philippines may seem unimportant. If we visualize the long future and the steadily increasing part which the conserving of natural resources, and the acquiring of good trade bases, are taking in the affairs of nations, it is doubtful if any question more vitally affects the future of the American people than does this question of our relations with the Philippines and the Far East. Whatever action we may take upon this question the fate of a promising but largely helpless people must be foremost in our minds. It is our duty to cause our flag to be venerated in the Philippines as the symbol of liberty, light and progress."

"Crime and Its Remedy" was Mr. Lawrence's subject. He said: "The administration of criminal justice in the United States is apparently a failure.

"How are we going to remedy this menacing and deplorable condition? We must first awaken the consciousness of all true Americans to a realization of their duty as parents and teachers of a younger generation.

"Unless we take the matter seriously and solve it by building up the boys into clean, right-living and right-thinking citizens, crime will continue to increase and the problem will only become greater as time goes on."

The other speeches were "The City Manager Form of Government" by F. Ryeburn Lynch; "America and the Immigrant", Vernet S. Keller; "Cyrus Hamlin," Samuel W. Pattee. The speakers were ably trained by Professor W. Northrop Morse in the Public Speaking Course.

The speeches were interspersed with a musical program which was well-received by the audience. Miss Louise Thompson played two organ solos, and Miss Louise Robinson concluded the program with an organ solo. President Paul D. Moody presided.

College gentlemen prefer P. A.

BLOND gentlemen and dark-haired gentlemen, diffident* freshmen and august seniors . . . Prince Albert is the overwhelming campus-favorite of every type and every pipe. (Yes, the pipes do have a voice in the matter. They can act in a docile, friendly manner or they can be mean. It depends on what you feed them.)

Open a tidy red tin of good old P. A. That first fragrant whiff will tell you why gentlemen prefer Prince Albert. Tuck a load into the bowl of your pipe and light up. Fragrance and taste alone are enough to win you.

But P. A. doesn't stop there. It is cool-smoking. It is mild as Maytime, yet it has plenty of body. It is kind to your tongue and throat. You can hit it up all you like and it never hits back. Try a tin of P. A. You'll certainly prefer it after that.

*Not too diffident.

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half-pound tin humidors, and pound crystal-glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and parch removed by the Prince Albert process.
